| SIGN IN MOVED EARLIERIt now sits in onboarding, paid for by an analysis of their own account rather than asked for cold. | THE WALL MOVEDIt was on capability. It is now on volume: more videos and more categories, which is what we charge for.        | THE PLAN IS GONEA six-step shot list is homework. The adaptation survives as one stealable line they can copy in a second.         |
| CATEGORY PICKER KEEPS FREE TEXTPick a category or name your own, so nobody bounces because their niche is missing.       | FILMING QUESTION SPLIT IN TWOWhat you make and what you film with are different questions and were answering over each other. | FREE TIER TRAINS THE PAID HABITSwipe videos, then get prompted to search more categories. Both are the things the paid tier sells. |

Free feed

5 swipeable videos, each with the analysis. Habit forming.

06

Why it worked

Three reasons, plus your version of the hook. One line, copyable.

07

Prompt a second and third category. Trains the paid behaviour.

08 • PAYWALL

Join for more

Out of free videos and categories. The ask lands on a habit, not a stranger.

Here's what we found.

ACROSS YOUR LAST 12 VIDEOS

- 01 Your hooks take 4.1s to reach the point. Skincare outliers land it in 1.8s.
- 02 9 of 12 open on your product. The outliers open on a problem.
- 03 Your best video did 3.2x your average. It was the only one with no music.

None of this is a follower problem. It is a first-three-seconds problem.

| THE HANDLE IS BOUGHT, NOT ASKED FOR Screen 03 only works because screen 04 pays for it immediately. If the analysis is weak, the sign in becomes a naked gate. | NO HOMEWORK Nothing we hand a creator should take more than a few seconds to act on. One line they can copy beats a shot list they have to follow. | FREE TIER IS A REHEARSAL Swiping videos and searching categories are exactly what the paid tier sells. Free is practice, not a sample. |

| COUNT DOWN OUT LOUD "3 of 5 free" on every screen. The paywall should never be the first time they learn there is a limit. | MOBILE WEB, TIKTOK GRAMMAR No install step. Full-bleed vertical cards, actions on a right rail. Nothing new to learn. | SELF-CONTAINED No external fonts or scripts. The page renders on a slow or filtered connection. |

|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| FREE TIER NUMBERS 5 videos and 2 categories are placeholders. Worth testing 3 against 10, since this single number sets the whole conversion rate. | PRICE Unset. Small creators are the lowest-paying segment there is, so the number matters more here than in most products. | HANDLE WITHOUT TIKTOK AUTH If someone types a handle instead of connecting, how much can we actually analyze? That decides whether screen 04 lands. |
| SEARCH LATENCY Still the one hard blocker. If a new category takes minutes, screen 07 breaks the habit we just built.                              |                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                                   |

Revision 2, incorporating Ivan's notes. Draft wireframes, not final visual design. Greyboxes stand in for video; copy is written at final intent so it can be reviewed as a product decision.
